Dear Fellow Council Members and Regional Partners,

As I look back on my time as president of the Greater Nashville Regional Council, I am humbled by the experience of working alongside Middle Tennessee’s elected leaders during one of the greatest challenges in our history. As a regional council of governments, our role in building relationships across political geography is important. Those relationships have proven essential as we have drawn upon them throughout this long and trying year. Since the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic, GNRC has provided a forum for mayors to share resources and to support each other in the difficult decisions we each had to make for our local communities.

The ability of our organization to serve in such a vital role is due in large part to the foundation laid by Council leadership who have come before me. In recent years, GNRC has transformed itself into a relevant and resourceful agency with a growing repertoire of talent and service. My tenure as President began two years ago alongside the launch of a new brand and mantra, “Connecting Communities, Empowering People.” For years, many knew about our programs and services, but few recognized the importance of the organization on the whole. Those four words exemplify who we are and why we exist.

I am proud of our work to increase the levels of awareness about GNRC, and to build its reputation as a coordinated, expertly staffed council of elected leaders charged with making policies and directing investments to improve quality of life for Middle Tennesseans. It is our job to serve, help others, and to work together to make our region a great place to call home. As you read through this year’s annual report, I know you will be impressed by the variety of activities and accomplishments that have advanced that goal.

I want to thank my fellow Regional Council members for their ongoing commitment to GNRC, and acknowledge the extraordinary effort, resilience, and resolve of the executive board and professional staff as they continue to move us forward.

Respectfully,

Anthony Holt
Sumner County Mayor

COVID-19
SUPPORT AND COORDINATION

Following the on-set of COVID-19 shelter in place orders across Tennessee, GNRC began working with local governments, and state and federal agencies to provide resources to members of the public.

Supported Local Restaurants
GNRC received $1 million through the Families First Act passed by Congress at the on-set of the statewide shelter in place directive. 60% the funds from this program were used as a stimulus for locally owned restaurants who were paid to provide meals to senior adults.

$447K+  Was paid to 22 restaurants across the region

Expanded Nutrition Programs for Older Adults
The Families First Act provided funding for GNRC to expand its traditional meal programs for senior adults. GNRC contracted with the Mid-Cumberland HRA and Metro Social Services to coordinate meal delivery.

46K+  Meals were provided to nearly 4,000 older adults across Middle Tennessee

Connected Small Businesses to Funding
GNRC provided assistance to small businesses adversely affected by the pandemic through its Revolving Loan Fund program.

$2.5M  Awarded to capitalize a Revolving Loan Fund to support small businesses impacted by the pandemic

Connected with Seniors
GNRC launched a letter writing campaign to help prevent seniors from a sense of isolation during the pandemic.

3,825  Letters written by 485 volunteers and mailed to seniors

“We are so glad we had the GNRC program, thank you for everything you have done to help us.”
- Amy Mullinicks, Memories and Marmalade

“Thank you so much for allowing me to be a part of this program. It has truly been a blessing to me.”
- Crissy Tuttle, Southern Bites Food Truck

“Thank you very much for the opportunity to serve our community. We appreciate being able to make it to the other side of COVID with your support.”
- Theresa Chandler, Sweet T’s
Facilitated Communication Among Mayors, Communities

GNRC provided a regular coordination call among its members to share information, understand challenges and identify opportunities to assist one another as the effects of the pandemic set in across Middle Tennessee. The calls provided an opportunity for direct interaction with the Governor’s administration and members of the legislature.

Additionally, GNRC’s RoundTable Network kept I.T. and Solid Waste department heads across the region connected. RoundTable members shared challenges, innovations, and best practices as each community strived to maintain operations.

Connected Members to Economic Support

The U.S. Economic Development Administration (EDA) announced the availability of $1.5 Billion in CARES Act funds to aid communities impacted by the Coronavirus pandemic. GNRC, in partnership with Tennessee’s EDA representative, held a webinar to help communities understand and navigate this highly competitive funding opportunity.

GNRC was awarded $400,000 in funding the CARES Act that will be leveraged to update the region’s Comprehensive Economic Development Strategy to reflect the drastic economic changes to our region and identify and prioritize initiatives that promote economic recovery and resiliency.
WE ARE EXPERTS, PROFESSIONALS, AND PUBLIC SERVANTS.

*Staff roster as of December 2020
The administrative support team has worked very hard this year to mitigate disruption to our normal business operations for GNRC due to the March tornado and the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic.

As GNRC pivoted to remote work policy, the administrative team quickly turned its attention to deploying the necessary technology and equipment to keep staff productive. Over the summer, staff prepared the office environment with personal protective equipment and safety protocols to ensure our employees’ safe return.

After three years of litigation surrounding the sale of GNRC’s 501 Union office space, proceeds were finally disbursed in 2020. The funds from the sale of the building will be used for continued reinvestment into the agency.

After a series of recent improvements to internal controls over the last few years, GNRC turned a proverbial corner by receiving its first clean, independent audit in many years. Continuing efforts to advance the finance department’s operations includes a new web-based accounting system that will automate several purchasing and reimbursement workflows and provide financial and program staff with greater access to financial information about their projects and grants.

GNRC also upgraded its deferred compensation plan to provide its staff with better options for supplementing the legacy pension plan provided through the Tennessee Consolidated Retirement System.
Completed Executive Board Member Development Training

To increase member engagement, staff led a year-long development program for members of the Regional Council. These sessions provided in-depth training on the agency’s history, operations, governance, authority, and programming.

Because the Regional Council membership has experienced turnover through elections in recent years, it was essential to use the member development session to build relationships. Each session started with icebreakers, team building activities, facilitated conversation by Leadership Tennessee’s Executive Director, Cathy Cate, to make new connections among the members.

Evaluated Small Business Lending and Economic Development Efforts

GNRC convened a panel of local lending experts to evaluate the organization’s small business lending programs. GNRC provides administration and staffing to the Mid-Cumberland Area Development Corporation (MADC) which it launched as a separate non-profit Certified Development Company in 1983. MADC reviews and approves loans made available to support the local economy. GNRC collaborated with experts to develop a set of recommendations for modernizing its business development, loan servicing, and performance tracking.

Expert Lender Panel Participants included:
- Howard Bradley, F&M Bank, MADC Board Member
- Bruce Carter, retired Simmons Bank, MADC President
- Lethia Mann, First Tennessee Bank
- Jim Schmitz, Elliott Davis; retired Regions Bank
- Pete Wooten, Pinnacle Bank
SNAPSHOT OF IMPACT ACROSS THE REGION

In fiscal year 2020, GNRC leveraged its $15 million budget to improve the lives of thousands of Middle Tennesseans to support the local initiatives of dozens of communities.

This map depicts the location of grants and infrastructure investments, planning assistance, and aging and disability services administered by the Greater Nashville Regional Council during the fiscal year. The following section highlights the major accomplishments of each program area.

The map series on the following pages depict the local impact of specific program areas within GNRC.

Through a week-long social media campaign, GNRC shared statistics, resources, and stories to shine a light on this crucial issue. Care packages containing information about elder abuse prevention were delivered to 1,500 individuals around the region.

The Economic and Community Development team collaborates with local elected leaders, area chambers of commerce, local and state economic development officials, and state and federal agencies to prioritize and make investments in initiatives that increase economic prosperity and improve quality of life throughout the region. GNRC brings expertise and capacity to help communities receive grants and assistance that build a stronger and more resilient regional economy.

In FY 2020, the ECD team supported communities throughout the region to further workforce development, improve infrastructure, prepare sites for industrial development, and enhance tourism.

Additionally, GNRC supported small businesses by providing access to capital and promoting contracting opportunities. Through these efforts, GNRC’s current economic development portfolio includes projects and programs that have brought over $100 million in investment to the region.

Key Partnerships
One of the ECD Team’s key roles is to lead and actively engage in economic development conversations at the local, state, and national levels. Each year, staff convenes stakeholders throughout the region to discuss economic development priorities as part of the annual update to the Comprehensive Development Strategy (CEDS).

To keep its pulse on the latest in economic and community development, the team participated in TVA’s Economic Development Forum, the Governor’s Conference on Economic and Community Development, and the Nashville Chamber’s regional partners events.
The Community and Regional Planning team at GNRC plays a vital role in shaping the future of Middle Tennessee. Its programs and services operate on both a multi-county, regional scale as well as at the neighborhood level. At the regional level, the GNRC connects conversations about economic development and infrastructure planning.

Transportation Planning
Over the last year, GNRC has worked with its Transportation Policy Board to update the region’s short-term Transportation Improvement Program and to issue a call-for-projects to identify longer term investments to improve the area transportation system.

Environmental Planning
This year GNRC launched a first of its kind environmental roundtable to bring together practitioners from state and federal resource management agencies with local environmental experts and advocates. The group was formed to foster regional collaboration on issues and challenges related to environmental quality and to help establish the Council’s first strategy for the preservation and conservation of natural and socio-cultural resources.

Last year, GNRC hosted a Transportation Summit and launched the “Solve this Together” campaign to announce an update to the region’s Unified Transportation Plan.

Attend by Governor Bill Lee, State department commissioners, and more than 200 elected and community leaders, the summit reaffirmed the commitment of mayors to work across county lines and in collaboration with the state to find real solutions transportation challenges.

GNRC also provides support to communities interested in optimizing their local capital planning process or those needing assistance to identify and apply for funding made available through state and federal grants.

$7.9B  Dollars in infrastructure needs were identified across the region.

Spotlight Project: PlanGallatin!
Following the completion of its Strategic Plan in 2019, GNRC continued to work with the City of Gallatin to update its Comprehensive Plan. To empower residents, GNRC staff developed a scenario planning tool to allow the public to evaluate the trade offs and costs associated with various ways the City could grow in the future. The Research and Analytics team is responsible for maintaining information and datasets, creating maps and other data visualizations, and performing analysis in support of the organization’s programs and local member data needs.

Completing an update to the agency’s land-use and travel demand models was a major accomplishment for the Research and Analytics team in FY20. The land-use model predicts the future growth and development pattern across the region and is primarily used in the development of a new regional transportation plan. This model also supports local comprehensive plans and other regional planning activities.

The predictions are a key input into GNRC’s travel demand model used to forecast future year travel behaviors and transportation system performance (e.g., travel speeds, traffic congestion levels, transit ridership, etc.).

76% more miles traveled along the 7-county transportation planning area according to GNRC model forecasts, which translates into 66% more time spent in vehicles by 2045.

Data Dashboards
GNRC has continued to build out its Data Dashboards as a resource for Regional Council members. The interactive platforms allow users to explore big data and identify trends or patterns to support data-driven problem solving at the local level.

Visit GNRC.org/Dashboards to explore available data.
GNRC predicts the 13 county region will be home to 3.2M PEOPLE BY 2045

Population Growth is expected to increase by 2.25% per year for a total increase of 63% over the next 25 years.

The hexagon design throughout the annual report is inspired by the Research and Analytics team’s innovative approach to helping partners visualize big datasets and their geographic patterns.
The Policy and Government Affairs team supports the organization by participating in various local, statewide, and national initiatives being carried out by public agencies and non-profit organizations. This work includes building partnerships with other organizations with a common interest in aging and disability issues, population health outcomes, affordable housing, social equity and inclusion, environmental quality, and growth and development trends.

A significant part of the team’s activities center around the review and analysis of proposed policies, rule-making, or legislation that could have an impact – for better or worse – on GNRC programs, clients, and local member communities. GNRC monitors activities within the Tennessee General Assembly and U.S. Congress to inform local elected leaders on bills that may impact their community or the region.

The Roundtable network is an important part of the agency’s policy programming. The Roundtables bring together industry professionals, public-sector practitioners, and local elected leaders around specific issues of regional interest. Find a list at GNRC.org/Roundtables

In 2020, GNRC continued to staff Cumberland Region Tomorrow and facilitated strategic planning efforts to assist the organization’s leadership in planning for the future.

Mayors Caucus

Legislative issues for the GNRC area are discussed and prioritized by the Mayors Caucus. The Caucus was formed in 2009 to provide leadership on important issues facing a rapidly changing regional landscape.

Transportation, and particularly the pursuit of a modern regional transit system, served as the early catalyst, but in its brief history the Caucus has served as an effective forum for building personal relationships among mayors and has helped local governments support each other on state and federal legislative priorities. The Caucus is staffed by GNRC with consulting assistance provided by Stones River Group.

In 2020, the top priorities identified by the annual Caucus poll included continued support for solving Middle Tennessee’s ongoing transportation challenges, new regional capacity to address emerging solid waste issues, and support for the Governor’s proposed criminal justice reforms.

GNRC’s volunteer program continued to expand in 2020. Volunteers gave back to their community by supporting a variety of aging and disability programs, performing Medicare counseling services, assisting with outreach efforts, and mobilizing in response to COVID-19.

Launched Management Platform, Orientation
GNRC implemented the Galaxy Digital online platform to recruit volunteers, manage volunteer opportunities, and improve tracking and reporting.
